This manual is the result of months of work by several people. Christie Hedman, executive director of WDA, was the shepherd who guided the flock of writers and editors and technical people through the numerous drafts and revisions to the final product. She was assisted by Meredith Hunnibell and Susan Hesselgrave.

The main writers and researchers of the manual were WDA staff attorneys Kathy Knox and Pat Novotny. Staff attorney Rick Cowan assisted in the final stages. Suzanne Elliott, director of the Washington Appellate Defender Association, provided substantial editing advice. Also on the manual committee were Dave Compton, executive director of Society of Counsel, and Bob Boruchowitz, director of the Seattle-King County Defender Association. Michael Spearman, felony supervisor at the Defender Association, provided technical assistance. Style editing was done by Sheila Molnar and the layout and production of the manual was done by David Oxley.

This is WDA's first practice guidebook of this scope. We hope that it will be useful for criminal law practitioners representing clients in drug cases. Obviously, it cannot address every wrinkle in every case, and attorneys should apply their own experience and insight. We welcome suggestions for possible later editions.
